

World Wide Web

The World Wide Web was created in 1989 by Sir Tim Berners-Lee, who was born on 8th June 1955 in London. Access to the web is available to us all, with most libraries providing free access.

Did you know that if you have a library or gold card, you can access a variety of websites including the Encyclopaedia Britannica, by entering www.derbyshire.gov.uk/24hrlibrary.

You can save money by entering www.bt.com to find phone numbers, or check on the latest supermarket offers by entering www.madaboutbargains.co.uk.

If you wish to learn a new language www.bbc.co.uk/learning/subjects/languages.shtml is a good start point. Another BBC site I enjoy listening to is www.bbc.co.uk/bbc7. I'm able to hear again some of my favourite comedy shows; currently "Beyond Our Ken" and the "Navy Lark" are being broadcast. For Archers fans there is www.bbc.co.uk/archers.

For ideas to keep children amused during the holidays, www.dltk-kids.com contains a wealth of ideas. The website www.origami-club.com/en introduces you to the Japanese art of paper folding. Projects range from the very easy to the very difficult, so are suitable for all ages.
